MARYLAND

SPRING COMMENCEMENT MAY 25, 1989

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO THE GRADUATES

Dr. William E. Kirwan became president of the University of Maryland at College Park in 1989.

Today we honor a group of outstanding men and women who have successfully completed their courses of study at this university. You—today's graduates—came here a few years ago seeking an education. For many of you, the goal then may have been somewhat imprecise. Some may have been pursuing a degree to use as a credential to get a job, some may have been seeking a bachelor's degree as a necessary step to becoming a doctor or a lawyer, and still others may have been imbued with a thirst to acquire further knowledge. Whatever your reason for coming, I hope that you have found your days at this university very rewarding. I believe we have been successful if we have instilled in you an enduring desire to learn new things, increased your recognition of the remarkable power of the human intellect, enhanced your appreciation of the value of a culturally diverse society, and helped you to understanding better the extraordinary complexities of the world we live in.

For all but a relatively few of you who will remain here for graduate study, today will mark your physical separation from this university. But you will not be severed in spirit from this place. You will now belong to a large and ever growing family of alumni who have a common bond not unlike that which connects blood kin. Wherever you go, there go also our thoughts and our hopes for your continued growth and success.

The great American architect Frank Lloyd Wright once said, "No house should ever be on a hill or on anything. It should be of the hill, belonging to it, so hill and house can live together each the happier for the other."

So, too, I believe that you will always be of the University of Maryland at College Park, not from it. You and your alma mater are inextricably bound together and "each the happier for the other."

Congratulations, best wishes and Godspeed.

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS

The Campus

College Park is the seventh largest campus in the country in enrollment. In Fall 1988 undergraduates numbered 27,902 and graduate students 8,779 for a total enrollment of 36,681. This year's College Park operating budget is approximately $458 million, including financial aid for some 13,800 students.

Students can choose from more than 125 undergraduate and 80 graduate programs leading to degrees. In 1987-88, the campus awarded 5,819 bachelor's degrees, 1,216 master's degrees and 395 doctorates.

History

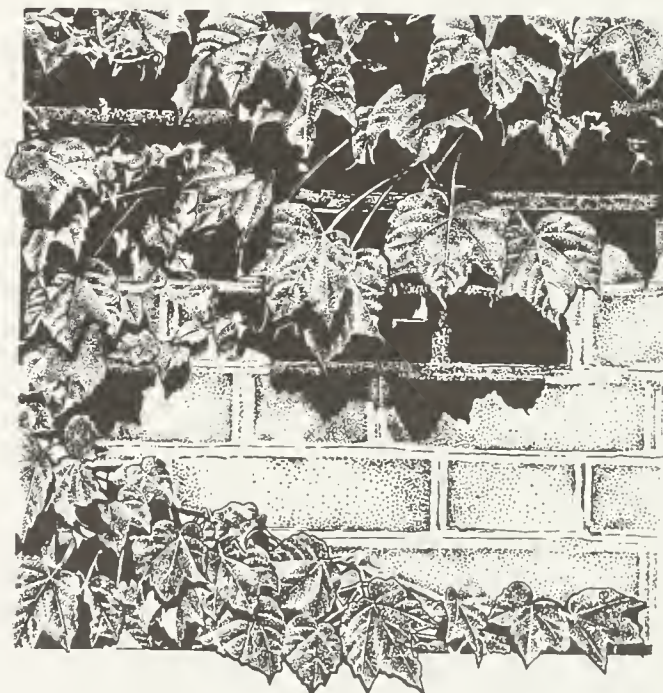

The university began in Baltimore in 1807 as a faculty-owned College of Medicine, which granted the M.D. degree. Five years later, more degrees were added when the college was renamed the University of Maryland. The first dental school in America, the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, became a part of the university in 1840. Later, the university opened schools of pharmacy, law and nursing.

The College Park campus opened in 1859 under a charter secured in 1856 by a group of Maryland planters. Then called the Maryland Agricultural College, it became one of the original land-grant schools in 1865. After a disastrous fire in 1912, the State acquired control of the college and paid to rebuild it.

Until the 1988 reorganization of higher education in Maryland, the University of Maryland dated back to a 1920 act of the State legislature that joined the state-owned institution at College Park (UMCP) with the professional schools in Baltimore (UMAB). Three other campuses were added later: Baltimore County (UMBC), Eastern Shore (UMES), and University College (UMUC), the worldwide campus headquartered in College Park.

July 1, 1988 marked the end of one era in public higher education in the State of Maryland and the dawn of another. In April, 1988 the State Legislature passed Senate Bill 459, the 1988 Action Plan for Higher Education. As a result, the five campuses comprising the former University of Maryland were merged with six institutions of the Maryland Board of Trustees of State Universities and Colleges. The new University of Maryland System was officially born on July 1, and as part of the law that created the new system, the State designated College Park as the flagship campus of the State.

THE COLLEGE PARK CAMPUS AND THE UNIVERSITY

Charles B. Calvert was one of the founders of the Maryland Agriculture College which later became The University of Maryland. Deciding that commercially sold bricks were too expensive, he set up a kiln to produce his own, and on August 24, 1858, he laid the cornerstone for the first building on the campus.

Libraries

Libraries on the College Park campus include approximately 1.93 million volumes, 22,915 subscriptions to periodicals and newspapers, and more than 3.6 million pieces of microform. College Park offers the largest university research library in the Washington area and is an important source of the State and local community.

Research Facilities

Among the exceptional research facilities on the campus are a computer vision laboratory; a full-scale low velocity wind tunnel; several smaller hypersonic helium wind tunnels; a 500 liter computer-controlled fermentation system for research in bioprocess scale-up programs; computer-assisted cartographic laboratories; the Center for Automation Research; a comfort perception laboratory; a quiescent plasma device (Q machine) for plasma research; and satellite remote sensing facilities. The campus is home for the Engineering Research Center, a major vehicle for extending the technical and research expertise of the University of Maryland to businesses and industries throughout the State. The center is both a catalyst for problem solving and a clearinghouse for information for technical information resources.

In 1985, College Park was awarded a five-year, $16 million grant from the National Science Foundation to create a new Systems Research Center to facilitate research in artificial intelligence and computer-aided engineering. The center complements a nationally recognized campus program of basic and applied research in computer science. The Systems Research Center recently received $1.5 million from Martin Marietta to endow a chair in systems engineering, and Contel Corp. joined the SRC as an industrial sustaining partner with an annual $200,000 grant. In 1986, UMCP became one of 19 research institutions around the country to be linked via satellite to the Cray supercomputer facility at the University of California at San Diego.

The proximity of the campus to national research institutions such as the National Institutes of Health, the Smithsonian Institution, the USDA Beltsville National Agricultural Research Center and National Agricultural Library, and the Library of Congress ensures that prime research facilities are always available to the university's faculty and students.

The Graduates

Students graduating today from the University of Maryland at College Park follow in the footsteps of many notable UMCP alumni who have distinguished themselves in such fields as science, entertainment, arts, journalism, business, law, medicine, and government.

While he was a graduate student in mathematics at College Park, Herbert A. Hauptman (Ph.D. '54), worked simultaneously at the Naval Research Laboratory to devise a method for mapping three-dimensional structures of molecules. Three decades later he and Jerome Karle, his long-time collaborator at NRL, won the 1985 Nobel Prize in Chemistry for their pioneering research. Dr. Hauptman was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree by UMCP in 1985.

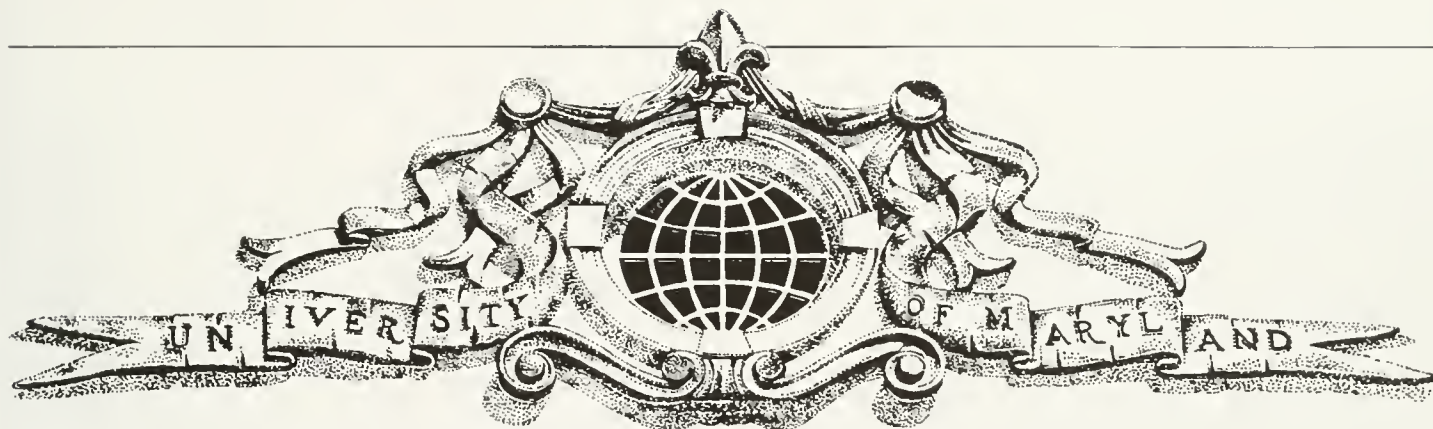

One of the youngest UMCP graduates ever, Charles Fefferman ('66), received a joint degree in mathematics and physics at age 17. Now a world-class mathematician and professor at Princeton University, he holds the Fields Medal, the most prestigious mathematics award.

CBS news anchor Connie Chung ('69) started her career at UMCP's Diamondback newspaper and the campus radio station WMUC.

One of the university's most devoted sons is A. James Clark ('50), president of the George Hyman Construction Co. and president and chairman of CEI Construction Inc., the umbrella organization for engineering and construction companies that include OMNI and Hyman. A former member of the University's Board of Regents, in 1983 Clark made a major contribution to the College of Engineering which led to the establishment of the A.J. Clark Chair in Construction Engineering and Management.

Two-time Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist and science writer with Baltimore's Evening Sun Jon Franklin ('70) is an associate professor of journalism at UMCP.

Other notable alumni include former Metropolitan Opera star, Carmen Balthrop ('71); George V. McGowan ('51), president of Baltimore Gas and Electric; Karl W. Meyer ('49), president of the University of Wisconsin, Superior Campus; Maryland's Fourth District Congressman Tom McMillen ('74), a former Rhodes Scholar; Mary Stallings Coleman ('35), the first woman elected to the Supreme Court of Michigan; Fred O'Green ('49), retired Curator of Textiles, Smithsonian Institution; James R. Buckler ('70), current director of the Smithsonian's Office of Horticulture; Anne Truax Darlington ('52), creator of Wall Street Week, the director of the International Production Group for the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting; and Allen J. Krowe ('54), senior vice president of the International Business Machines Corp.

This decorative, bull's eye window welcomes visitors to the Main Administration Building.

Academic Costume

The black caps and gowns worn by the students and faculty in the academic procession have been the traditional costume of scholars since medieval times. They probably represent a kind of ecclesiastical dress, since many of the scholars of that period were members of monastic orders.

Most colleges and universities in the United States have adopted the uniform code for costumes drafted by an intercollegiate commission in 1983. Each of the three academic degrees—bachelor, master and doctor—has its own distinctive gown and hood. The bachelor's gown has a longer, more narrow, closed sleeve extending below the knee; the arm fits through a slit at the elbow. The doctor's gown has a full, bell-shaped sleeve trimmed with three bars of velvet. The velvet trim on the gown can be black or a color indicating the wearer's general field of learning—for example, green for medicine or purple for law. A list of department colors follows.

Agriculture/Marze	Music/Pink
Arts, Letters, Humanities/White	Nursing/Apricot
Business Administration,	Oratory, Speech/Silver Gray
Commercial Science/Drab	Pharmacy/Olive
Dentistry/Lilac	Philanthropy/Rose
Economics/Copper	Philosophy/Dark Blue
Education/Light Blue	Public Administration, Foreign
Engineering/Orange	Service/Peacock Blue
Fine Arts, Architecture/Brown	Public Health/Salmon
Forestry/Russet	Physical Education/Sage Green
Home Economics/Maroon	Science/Golden Yellow
Journalism/Crimson	Social Work/Citron
Law/Purple	Theology and Divinity/Scarlet
Library Science/Lemon	Veterinary Sciences/Gray
Medicine/Green

The most colorful and distinctive part of the academic costume is the hood extending down the back. The doctor's is the largest of the hoods and the bachelor's is the smallest. The bachelor's hood is often omitted.

Silk lining of various colors in the center of the hood indicates the college or university which conferred the degree. Consistent for all degrees is the cap, or mortar board, which has a tassel of black or another color indicating the field of learning. The tassel of the doctor's cap can be gold.

Academic Degrees

A degree is awarded for the successful completion of a course of study. There are more than 1,600 different academic degrees currently conferred by colleges and universities nationwide.

The first known degree was a doctorate bestowed by the University of Bologna, Italy, in the mid-12th century. Originally, the doctor's and master's degrees were used interchangeably, each indicating that the holder was qualified to instruct students. The bachelor's or baccalaureate, degree only indicated entrance into a course of study preparatory to the doctorate or mastership. Gradually, though, the bachelor's degree came to mean successful completion of one level of study in advance of the higher degrees.

The Doctor's Degree

The term "doctor," meaning teacher or instructor, originated with the ancient Romans for those who lectured publicly on philosophical topics. During the Middle Ages, it was used as a title of honor for men of great learning. It was first made an academic title at the University of Bologna, which was allowed by the emperor to appoint legum (doctors of laws). The University of Paris followed suit in the year 1145. Soon after, popes granted the universities the right to appoint doctors canonum et decretalium (teachers of the canon law) and, when the study of civil law was combined with that of the canon law, the title was changed to doctor utriusque juris (teacher of both laws). The faculties of theology and medicine that of law in conferring this title.

A doctorate is given beyond the baccalaureate degree and requires several years of advanced study, the successful completion of a thesis or dissertation, and written and oral examinations. The doctor's degree represents the most advanced earned degree conferred by American institutions. There are two distinct types: the practitioner's degree and the research degree. The first type represents advanced training for the practice of various professions, principally Doctor of Medicine, Juris Doctor and Doctor of Pharmacy. These degrees carry no implication of original research. The University of Maryland awarded the first two dental degrees in history on March 9, 1841, and invented the name of the degree, Doctor of Dental Surgery (D.D.S.).

The second type is a research doctorate representing prolonged periods of advanced study. A dissertation which usually accompanies the study is intended to contribute substantially to existing knowledge on the subject. The most important of these, the Doctor of Philosophy, no longer has an implication of philosophy for its holder, but represents advanced research in any of the major fields of knowledge. It was first awarded in the United States in 1861 by Yale University. The University of Maryland awarded a Ph.D. for the first time in 1920.

The Master's Degree

The master's degree is an academic honor bestowed upon students who have successfully completed work beyond the baccalaureate. A thesis and an oral examination are usually required. The word magister was used by the Romans as a title of honor, but its present meaning can be traced to the establishment of the oldest universities. Organized faculties as they now exist in universities were not known then; academic activity was limited to seven liberal arts. Those who were honored for their diligence and knowledge upon completion of their studies and who had already received the bachelor's degree were called magistri artium (master of the liberal arts). In 1920, the University of Maryland awarded its first Master of Arts (M.A.) and Master of Science (M.S.) degrees in fields other than agriculture.

The Bachelor's Degree

The bachelor's degree represents completion of a four-year course of college-level study and is the oldest academic degree used by American institutions of higher learning. It was first conferred in America in 1642 on the first nine graduates of Harvard College. Maryland Agriculture College, which later became the University of Maryland College Park, awarded its first Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) and Bachelor of Science (B.S.) degrees in 1862.

Joel Conarroe is a man of vision.

As president of the prestigious John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, Conarroe's insights and ideas have left a profound and indelible imprint on the way the arts and humanities are currently perceived by both academicians and the general public.

Before he took the helm of the Guggenheim Foundation in 1985, Conarroe was Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences and Thomas S. Gates Professor at the University of Pennsylvania from 1983 to 1985.

He served as Executive Director of the Modern Language Association and editor of its journal, PMLA, from 1978 to 1983 during a time when questioning of the relevance of the liberal arts on and off campus led to the formulation of the contemporary agenda for the humanities. His leadership in academic circles is evident in the growing influence of women scholars, in a new affinity between business leaders and humanists and in an expansion of international exchanges between the U.S. and nations around the globe. From 1985 to 1988 Conarroe was a trustee of the MLA.

Chairman last year of the fiction jury for the National Book Awards, a member of the Pulitzer Prize jury for poetry in 1984 and a member of the Board of the National Book Critics Circle from 1980 to 1987, Conarroe is the author of numerous books and articles, including John Berryman: An Introduction to the Poetry and William Carlos Williams' Paterson: Language and Landscape. His essays and reviews of fiction, non-fiction and poetry appear regularly in The Washington Post, The New York Times Book Review, and such journals as American Literature and American Poetry Review.

As president of the Guggenheim Foundation, Conarroe oversees the distribution of fellowships that are awarded to men and women who have demonstrated exceptional capacity for productive scholarship in science, social science and the humanities or exceptional creative ability in the arts. In 1988 the foundation awarded 262 United States and Canadian Fellowships for a total of more than $6.3 million. There were 3,265 applicants.

A native of West Orange, New Jersey, Conarroe was born on October 23, 1934, and earned his bachelor's degree with honors in English from Davidson College in 1956. He went on to obtain his master's and Ph.D. degrees in English from Cornell University and New York University, respectively.

Today, in recognition of his distinguished academic career and outstanding leadership in organizations dedicated to the advancement of scholarship, especially in the arts and humanities, Conarroe receives the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters from the University of Maryland at College Park.

JOEL CONARROE HONORARY DOCTOR OF LETTERS

Michael D. Dingman is recognized as one of the nation's top business leaders.

Dingman is the Managing Director-Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of The Henley Group, Inc., which he has headed since it was formed in early 1986. Two major companies within The Henley Group are Fisher Scientific, one of the world's leading manufacturers and distributors of health and scientific products, and Wheelabrator Technologies, a corporate leader in waste-to-energy conversion.

Dingman's career spans more than three decades. A native of New Haven, Connecticut, where he was born in 1931, Dingman attended the University of Maryland at College Park until 1953 when he took his first job as a factory trainee with Pfaff & Kendall, a Newark, New Jersey manufacturer.

Dingman's father, James E. Dingman, is an engineering alumnus and 1960 honorary degree recipient. As Michael Dingman receives the honorary degree of Doctor of Science in Business and Management, he and his father, James, are the first father and son to receive honorary degrees at the University of Maryland at College Park.

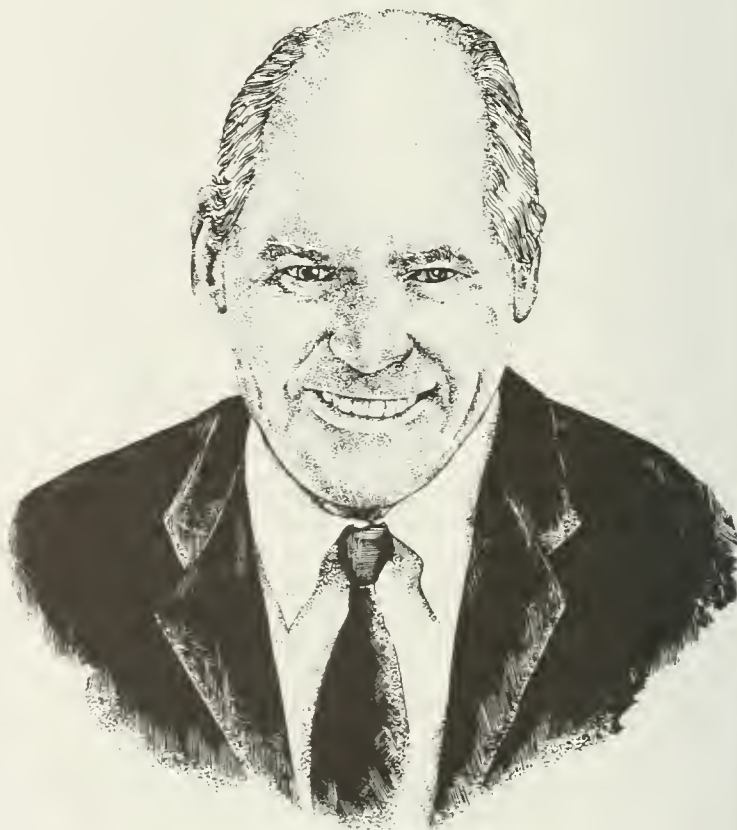

In 1964 Dingman joined the Wall Street firm of Burnham & Company (now Drexel Burnham Lambert Incorporated) as an associate in corporate finance. He became general partner of the firm in 1969. A year later he left the firm and in 1970 formed Wheelabrator-Frye Inc., the worldwide engineering and manufacturing firm that he headed for the next 13 years.

When Wheelabrator-Frye was merged into The Signal Companies, Inc., Dingman was named to the presidency of the La Jolla, California-based firm. He served as president and a director of Signal from 1983 until that company merged with Allied Corporation. Dingman was president of Allied-Signal Inc. from September 1985 until he assumed his present position.

Long interested in philanthropic and community involvement, Dingman has supported the education of future business people by establishing The Michael D. Dingman Center for Entrepreneurship at Maryland's College of Business and Management. He also recognized the value of the Washington Journalism Review as one of the most respected journalism reviews nationally and provided major support after the College of Journalism acquired WJR.

In recognition of his distinguished career and exceptional contributions to the national business community, today Dingman receives the honorary degree of Doctor of Science in Business and Management from the University of Maryland at College Park.

MICHAEL D. DINGMAN HONORARY DOCTOR OF SCIENCE IN BUSINESS AND MANAGEMENT

Frederick Gutheim's work as a city and regional planner and consultant has earned him respect around the world.

A native of Cambridge, Massachusetts, where he was born in 1908, Gutheim has made major contributions in city and regional planning that span a 50-year period from the 1930s, when he authored sections of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act, to the 1970s when he was a co-author of the United States Capital Master Plan.

Educated at the University of Wisconsin where he studied planning and history and later at the University of Chicago where he concentrated on public administration and planning, Gutheim's professional work has also included leadership positions in a number of planning organizations. His positions in the field of planning have included serving as staff director for the Joint Committee on Washington Metropolitan Problems, U.S. Congress from 1958 to 1960, commissioner of the Upper Montgomery County Planning Commission from 1950 to 1958, and chairman of the National Capital Transportation Agency Board from 1961 to 1965.

Gutheim also has introduced methods of preserving the cultural landscape in the United States through integrating historic preservation and regional planning concepts into his work. His intense interest in historic preservation evolved from early work in architectural history and is reflected in his numerous journal articles and in the work of the Society of Architectural Historians, of which he was an early member.

He also was editor of the architecture essays in the WPA Federal Writers Project state guidebook series.

As a member of the President's Task Force for Natural Beauty from 1964 to 1965, he wrote sections of its report and contributed to the subsequent White House Conference on Natural Beauty, all of which led to National Historic Preservation legislation.

Following earlier service on the President's Advisory Council on Pennsylvania Avenue, in 1965 he defined the boundaries of the Pennsylvania Historic District for the Interior Department.

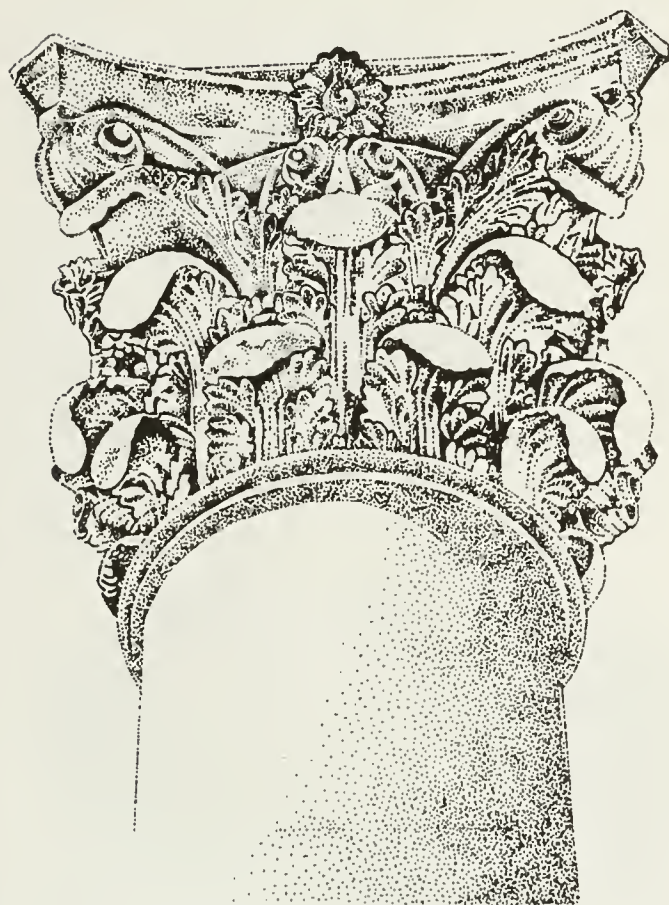

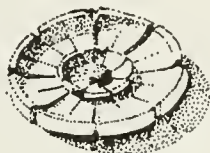

One of Gutheim's significant contributions to the region is his continuing efforts to save the scenic and historic landscape of Sugarloaf Mountain in Montgomery County where he has made his home for 40 years.

In recognition of his distinguished academic career in urban planning and leadership in historic preservation and in organizations dedicated to the advancement of scholarship, especially in the arts and humanities, today Gutheim receives the honorary degree of Doctor of Public Service.

"A Meeting Place: Night and Day" is a monument created by the late UMCP art Professor Kenneth Campbell. The 15-ton structure, which consists of two 18-foot-high pieces, is sited on a cobblestone court surrounded by dwarf pine trees just east of the H.J. Patterson Building.

SCHOLARSHIP HONORS

A spired cupola sits atop the roof of the newly-renovated Microbiology Building. Built in 1938, the building originally served as a U.S. Bureau of Mines research center for non-metallic minerals.

Bachelor's degree candidates who have qualified for scholarship honors on graduation are designated by appropriate symbols adjacent to their names within the alphabetical listings of departments, colleges or schools.

To be eligible for consideration for such honors a candidate must meet the following general criteria: (1) have completed at least two years of work at the University of Maryland (60 semester hours, 30 of which were earned at College Park) and (2) have a scholastic average of B (grade point average of 3.000) or higher in University of Maryland work prior to the last semester of registration before award of degree.

May 1989 candidates who have met these criteria are shown in the listings as qualifying, upon graduation, for the designations Summa cum Laude (if they ranked in the top two percent of the candidates in their respective divisions, colleges or schools), Magna cum Laude (if in the next three percent), or cum Laude (if in the next five percent), based on the grade point averages of students in the preceding three graduating classes of their degree-granting unit.
